The Powerful 212/SX

QUALITY MEETS QUANTITY

At REL, a deeper understanding of quality underpins everything we do. So, whilst 212/SX thunders and shakes foundations, it also resolves detail and restores midrange warmth to its correct balance. At 1,000 watts with (4) 12" (350mm) drivers, 212/SX drives rooms hard and in multiple modes which allows it to create richer bass everywhere in a room.

Refinements to both our legendary ultra-fast filters and newly developed drivers produces harder slam and brings to life quieter, gentler moments, improving system performance at both extremes. Plays brilliantly with both high end 2-channel and large power theatre applications.

All I Was Hoping For

I recently upgraded from 2 S5 SHO subs that I had listened to for over 4 years. I bought the 212SX and after a few days of listening and tweaking they are all I was hoping for. I have found that less is more with these subs. These subs need to stay out of the way of my Sopra 3 speakers. Once I got the crossover set low enough (10 clicks) the gain ...Read More

A Truly Hi-End Sub

I have Sopra 3 main speakers and a room that is 4.2 x 7 x 3.2 meters. Not big and not small. For the past 4 years I have owned S5 SHO subs driven by PrimaLuna EVO 400 separate power amps and EVO 400 preamp. Middle of the road stuff. Good but not over the top as some can be today. I added 2 - 212SX subs recently and after only 48 hours I have decid...Read More

212/SX The Bomb

I recently purchased a REL212/SX. I was immediately impressed that it could keep up with my Klipschorns. There was never any smearing or boom in the low end. I was hoping to get improved sound stage and clarity from my complete A/V system with the REL added in. I was already happy with the bass in my system. As things turned out, I was most impres...Read More

Nice Upgrade From S/812

I was a long-time owner of an S/812 and that was one of the best subwoofers I ever purchased. I decided to upgrade to the 212/SX on my main system that is used mainly for movies with Dolby Atmos and occasional 2-channel listening. I purchased my 212/SX from an authorized dealer. Please note that if you purchase one of these units, the specs may va...Read More

REVIEWS + AWARDS

"The REL 212/SX is a thing of beauty. With its piano gloss lacquer, finely crafted borders and mechanical features, it even looks like a musical instrument. That's not an accident. If you want bass to sound - and look - the very best, then this subwoofer ticks all the boxes. If you're mulling over subwoofers in the price bracket, we say go and book an audition at your nearest dealer. It will be worth the journey." Read More +
